- 4. Number of participants: 62
- 5. Objective: To enhance the knowledge of the students about the importance and use of GIS and Remote Sensing in geographical research and how it can help the researchers to get better results in geographical research.

6. Detailed Description of the event:

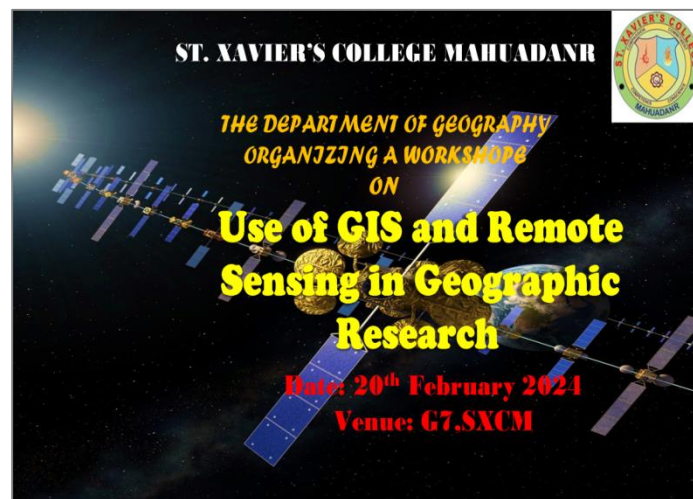

On February 20th 2024 the Department of conducted a Workshop on the theme Use of GIS and Remote Sensing in Geographical research. The program was designed and executed by Faculties of the department. Asst. prof. Rozy Sushmita Tirkey was the key speaker of the workshop. She shared the invaluable insights on the theme, where students were told about the basic introduction of the theme and later on, they were briefed about the use of these technologies in the Geographical research field.

There was a Q&A session between the speaker and students which turned out to be the captivating session where students learned so much about the application and its use and how they can choose a career in the field of GIS and Remote Sensing.

7. Outcome:

Students learned that how the use of these applications in the field of Geographical research can help get the information from various field. This workshop gave the information to the students about the career path they can find in the area of GIS and Remote Sensing.
